1. On December 21, 1998 Applicant mailed a Response to Notice to File Missing Parts of Application ("Response") in response to a Notice to File Missing Parts of Application, mailed by the Patent Office on October 26, 1998.
2. Applicant's undersigned attorney personally reviewed the Response to insure all pages were present. Applicant's undersigned attorney hereby affirms that the declaration was indeed included in the Response as filed.
3. The legal assistant for Applicant's undersigned attorney, Christopher Paul Jackson, prepared the Response transmittal letter wherein it states "(5) Originally executed Declaration (2 pages)." See Exhibit A.
4. The legal assistant for Applicant's undersigned attorney, Christopher Paul Jackson, reviewed the Response to insure that all documents listed on the transmittal letter were present. He signed the Certificate of Mailing, counted each page of the transmittal letter and enclosures, and enclosed the Response in an envelope and sealed the envelope for mailing. See Exhibit A.
5. Applicant also included a postcard which also indicates that the Response included an "Originally executed Declaration (2 pages)." See Exhibit B. The Patent Office initially reviewed the response, transmittal letter, and postcard. The postcard has a date stamp put on it by the Patent Office mailroom. If the Originally executed Declaration had indeed been missing from the originally filed response, it seems likely that the Patent Office would have discovered as such when it reviewed the transmittal letter and the postcard.

Based on the above, it is clear that Applicant did NOT fail to include the Originally executed Declaration with the above-referenced matter. If such document is now missing, Applicant respectfully submits it is due to an error within the Patent Office.

For the convenience of the Examiner, Applicant hereby includes a copy of the Originally executed Declaration as originally filed. As such, Applicant hereby requests acceptance of the enclosed replacement of the Originally executed Declaration.

Respectfully submitted,
